ROBERT A. MEERS, Notary Public.

The grand jury, at its next session, will probably look into some questionable official operations of that sweet scented nasal, Constable GRAHAM. This is the fellow who claims that the SENTINEL has damaged his reputation $2,000 worth.

Our venerable fellow citizen, uncle JESSE WILLIAMS, exhibits a remarkable disinclination to tackle the commandments recently propounded to him through these columns by correspondents. Uncle JESSE in this silence, exhibits a praiseworthy amount of discretion which some of his newspaper adherents would do well to imitate.

The radical state of Kansas cries "Hold! enough," to the negro immigrants. The Kansans complain that their labor market is being overstocked, and that a large pauper element is being added to their population, thus materially increasing the people's burdens. That's what the radicals propose to do for Indiana, in the vain effort to make it a republican state.

It has been intimated that WILLIAM FLEMING was mixed up with the Richmond bond matter. Without imputing the slightest wrong or dishonesty to those who secured the issuing and delivering of these bonds, it is but justice to say that he was opposed from the beginning to the donation to the Richmond road as well as all the railroad bonds voted by the city, those only excepted which were issued in aid of the Grand Rapids road.

A LITTLE presidential boom has been started for CHARLES FRANCIS ADAMS. Mr. ADAMS is a man of culture, statesmanship and irreproachable personal character. He would doubtless make an admirable president and would once have made a strong candidate, but his day has passed. Mr. ADAMS is not popular with the people. He is regarded as a cold blooded, wealthy aristocrat; and there is nothing about him to stir up popular enthusiasm. He is not an organizer or political leader. The ADAMS boom will be short lived.

GEN. TOM BRADY has recently made a fortune by stock speculations, and has purchased a $50,000 residence in Washington. Having his barrel well filled, he is said to cherish the idea of depleting it a little by making a race for the governorship of Indiana. His organ, the sprightly Muncie Times, intimates that if the general goes for the nomination he will get it, and adds (facetiously, we presume) that if nominated he would be elected. The Times warns other aspirants to get off the track. Gen. BRADY, although a bitter radical, is a very clever and popular gentleman, and we should hate to see his political aspirations blasted by an attempt to lead the republican forlorn hope in 1880.

STATE TREASURER FLEMING on Saturday negotiated $200,000 of 5 percent Indiana bonds, to be issued on the 1st prox. at a premium of 27. This is a remarkably good sale—the best we believe in the history of the state. The bonds only run five years, and at 5 percent interest this premium is remarkably large and was wholly unexpected. It proves the fidelity of the cry that the democratic party is a repudiation party. Indiana is the most reliable democratic state in the north, and it promises to remain so; yet its credit is unsurpassed by that of any state in the country. State Treasurer FLEMING has displayed his well-known skill and sagacity in negotiating the securities of the state since he went into office. It pays to have an experienced and trained financier for treasurer of state.

GOV. GARCELON, of Maine, in an interview with a Herald correspondent says that the state council will do nothing in the way of certifying the returns of the election which the law, and their official oaths do not require them to do, and that they will act with rigid impartiality, treating democrats, greenbackers and republicans alike. If the republicans suffer in the process it will be only because they have been guilty of fraud, or have not complied with the laws which they themselves passed. Gov. GARCELON'S integrity is undoubted and there is no reason to doubt that he tells the exact truth. Senators BLAINE and HAMLIN will have little popular sympathy in their cries about "fraud" especially in view of their unsavory record in defending the enormities perpetrated by the Louisiana and Florida returning boards.

THE IRISH TROUBLE.

The situation of affairs in Ireland is daily becoming more serious and critical. The Irish tenantry are thoroughly aroused, and as they have a good cause, strong leaders, and have thus far acted with considerable moderation, the British government is not unnaturally alarmed. PARNELL, the head and front of the land agitation, is a young man of brains, culture and ability. His utterances are universally characterized by wisdom, prudence and patriotism. He advises no incendiary measures. He tells his followers to assert their rights peacefully but firmly, and to be ready to defend them if necessary, but to avoid a collision as long as possible. There is believed to be a perfect understanding between the Irish tenantry and the agricultural laborers of England, which makes the movement more formidable than it otherwise would be. The recent arrests of Irish newspaper men, and the dispatch of English troops to Balla may bring on a collision which will usher in a bloody insurrection. This, it is to be hoped, may be averted. There is reason to believe that the approaching elections will show large gains for the liberals, and that the agitation, if peaceably conducted according to PARNELL'S ideas, will force parliament to proper concessions at an early day. Among the probable results of the movement is a large increase of Irish emigration to America.

As the SENTINEL has before said, the complaints of the Irish tenantry are well founded. Their wrongs are grievous and should be redressed. Their rents are unjust and oppressive and should be largely reduced. The curse of landlord absenteeism should be removed, and the tenantry afforded an opportunity to acquire ownership of the land they till. Their cause is just. Of its ultimate triumph there can be no doubt. Let us hope that the victory will come about peacefully and not through civil war.

STATE POLITICS.

Gen. Veatch is the last republican to say that he won't run for governor.

The Huntington Democrat believes Grant will be nominated by the republicans.

This from the Logansport Phoenix: "Thomas A. Hendricks's prospect for becoming president of the United States was never so bright as now."

The Indianapolis Democrat wants Wm. H. English for president and Col. Grey for governor.

The Auburn Republican suggests Nicholas Ensley (republican) of that place for treasurer of state.

The South Bend Tribune says: "Clarkson N. Potter has suddenly dropped out of sight as the man to occupy a place on the presidential ticket."

The Elkhart Democrat says: "Senator McDonald is advocating Thomas A. Hendricks for the presidency, and is endeavoring to lead him to take a place on the ticket."

The Frankfort Crescent thinks the ticket ought to be and probably will be David Davis and Clarkson N. Potter.

The Peru Sentinel says: "The Landers movement is fast dying out. We scarcely see his name mentioned now in connection with the government, except, of course, in the Indiana political Sentinel."

The Auburn Courier well says: "Should the mischievous leaders of the republican party succeed in electing Grant president in 1880, the people can look forward to the great event when his head shall be measured for a crown."

The Bluffton Banner is a "little off" too. It says: "Hon. William Fleming has been appointed chairman of the democratic state central committee. He is the right man in the right place."

The following stands at the head of the editorial columns of the Auburn Courier:

For president, Thomas A. Hendricks; subject to the decision of the democratic national convention. "Choose your own man, but choose a Union."

The New Albany Ledger-Standard has a slate. It says:

Hon. Joseph D. New for governor, Hon. Joseph E. McDonald for United States senator, and Hon. Wm. H. English for vice president would be a strong team, and ought to give entire satisfaction to the democracy especially and the voters generally.

The Logansport Journal says:

The Journal predicts that Indiana will furnish the republican candidate for vice president, if Gen. Grant is not called to the higher nomination by the whole country. In the latter case the ticket will be Grant and Blaine.

The Bluffton Chronicle, speaking of Venezuela Orith's predictions that Indiana will go republican next year, remarks that:

Mr. Orith is one of the shrewdest politicians in the party, and speaks not only from his convictions but from extensive observation.

The Auburn Courier sits down on Bayard thusly:

Democrats who are advocating the nomination of Bayard for president, should bear in mind that he advocated the adoption of the electoral commission bill, and that he was a member of the electoral commission. We might suggest other good reasons why he would not make a strong candidate.

The Jeffersonian News relieves itself of the following:

We can succeed, and will succeed next year by the selection of some such democratic man as Bayard—some democrat who will not have to face about on the money question; but as it is now fifteen months distant, and probably the last struggle the democracy will make as a party for supremacy in national affairs.

PERSONAL.

Maj. Thornburgh's body has been buried with Masonic ceremonies in Omaha, Neb. In the same grave was laid the body of his little boy, who died a short time ago.

Senator Lamar's mother, a venerable woman of seventy-seven years, died at her home in Vineville, Ga., a few days ago. Her intellectual attainments were of the highest order.

Mr. Gladstone is newly described as an active, lithe, muscular man; his face is scholarly and cultivated, with the outlines boldly defined, by that meagreness of muscle which distinguishes the intellectual athlete.

Senator Chandler's coffin was made in Rochester, and the undertaker's firm which supplied it print in a local newspaper, as an advertisement, a description of it, dilating on this last tribute to Rochester "home talent."

Mrs. Grant says that the general once lost all his money in a potato speculation. He paid $750 for 150 bushels of potatoes, planted them; expecting to make a large profit, but when they were ripe potatoes were too cheap to pay for the digging.

In the list of those who were presented to Gen. and Mrs. Grant, at the ladies' reception, were Gen. and Mrs. John McDonald, formerly of St. Louis; the lady in question being Sylph, while both names were connected with the whiskey frauds of that city.

Miss Maude White, the only woman who has ever gained the Mendelssohn scholarship at the Royal Academy of Music, is now at work upon an opera. Her libretto is taken from Lermontov's "Jocelyn," and the young composer's ardent hope is that when her work is produced she may be allowed to guide the orchestra.

The Athenaeum announces that Mrs. Rodgers, a daughter of Mr. John Burton Hill, will soon bring out a novel entitled "Bonnie Mary Jamesone." The heroine of the story is a daughter of a Scotch painter who painted, after father's designs, the interesting tapestries preserved in St. Nicholas's Church, Aberdeen.

Mr. Pierre Lorillard has paid the duty and secured the release of the Epsom cup, won by his horse, Parole, on May 30. The cup was entered at the New York custom house as a "manufacture of gold and silver," valued at $2,499. The duty was assessed at 40 percent making the amount paid $999.60.

Chicago Tribune: A young woman at Smyrna, New York, had a dream, many years ago, of eight men standing in a row before her with outstretched hands. She interpreted this to mean that she would have eight husbands. Her seventh husband died lately, and, although she is now eighty-four, the local sports are betting $10 to $6 against time.

Once a young man applied to Dr. O. W. Holmes for employment as an amanuensis. The doctor replied that he was able to do all his own writing, with a little aid occasionally from members of his family. He added that there was little chance for securing such employment in Boston, as most of the Boston authors were as poor as rats, and as little able to employ amanuensis as to set up a coach and six.

Senator Booth's dinner to Gen. Grant at Sacramento had a merry surprise in the midst of it. Forty-five gentlemen sat down to the table and dinner was nearly finished, when suddenly the folding doors at one end of the room, which the table nearly touched, were thrown open and behold! there was another room of the same size as the first and down its length extended a table at which were seated forty-five ladies with Mrs. Grant, all of whom had been dining comfortably at the table. The gentlemen arose, applauded and waved handkerchiefs, the ladies returned the cordial greetings and the evening most pleasantly proceeded.

FOREIGN FLASHES.

A Rome correspondent reports Vesuvius again active. A great eruption seems probable.

The Japanese government has discovered that its notes have been extensively counterfeited.

A Berlin correspondent reports that an explosion of gas took place at Hainburg Friday. Ten persons were killed.

The Afghan leader at the battle of Charsab is reported to have crossed the Balkh frontier and taken refuge with the Russians.

Several members of the Turkish cabinet have expressed strong disapprobation at the violent tone of the Turkish press toward England.

The Empress Eugenie has left England for Madrid, via Paris, under an assumed name, to visit her mother, the Countess Montijo, who is reported ill.

Nordenfjöld, journeying homeward, received complimentary demonstrations at Kobe and Kagaaki, the central and southwestern open ports of Japan.

Cardinal Nina, papal secretary of state, is accused of using some language officially to the Belgian ministry and another privately to the bishops, and fresh difficulties are apprehended.

Last August Gen. Grant presented a valuable drop curtain to the manager of the principal theatre in Tokio. The manager now sends in return a splendid set of harness, ornamented in gold lacquer.

The new French cable was formally inaugurated Friday by a telegram from Grevy, president of the French republic, to the president of the United States, expressing the most cordial relations.

The Forte has made an important communication to the British government, tending to prove that there will be no unnecessary delay in the introduction of reforms demanded by England, and Lord Salisbury, British foreign secretary, has given assurances that his government fully understands the financial and other difficulties of the Forte, and does not wish to complicate the situation by menace.

NEWS NOTES.

The President Saturday signed the commission of Col. John Hay as assistant secretary of state.

Moody and Sankey, revivalists, will inaugurate a series of religious meetings at St. Louis, on Tuesday night.

The boiler makers in St. Louis have formed an organization, and will demand an advance of 10 to 15 percent in wages this week.

The leading brewers of Cincinnati have been trying to secure uniformity in prices and an increase in the price of beer, to this end endeavoring to obtain pledges of all to maintain rates at $8 per barrel. Failing in this, they propose to consolidate their interests, forming a joint stock company, thus greatly reducing expenses.

The Spanish government has received official reports that in the province of Santiago de Cuba, troops of the Ayuso brigade on the 15th inst. attacked a camp of Quintero's men, killing six insurgents and burning 300 huts, which the followers of Quintero had built in the province of Santa Clara. The Spaniards defeated a party of insurgents, who abandoned their horses in their flight.

The following are the messages between President Hayes and President Grevy, opening to the public the new French cable: The president of the French republic inaugurates the new cable, which unites France and America, by sending expressions of his most cordial sentiments to the president of the republic of the United States. President Hayes sent the following reply to the president of the French republic, Paris: The president of the United States acknowledges, with great satisfaction, the agreeable communication by which the president of the French republic makes known to him the completion and successful operation of the trans-Atlantic cable, and hopes that it may never be a vehicle of any other messages between the governments and people of the countries than those of friendship and respect.

CRIMES AND CASUALTIES.

A middle aged man named Tom Lawrence, fell from a moving freight train, killing him instantly.

Baron Luzeburg, Austrian ambassador at St. Petersburg, will be replaced by Prince Wladislawslatz.

Wm. Smith, one of the leaders of the mob who hung Young, of Missouri, was arrested at Gallipolis, O., Saturday.

The ex-Empress Eugenie arrived in Madrid Sunday, but her mother, the Countess de Montijo, was dead when she arrived.

Intelligence has been received in official circles at St. Petersburg with the effect that the British government intends to occupy Herat next spring.

A serious affray occurred the 13th inst. at Merigom on board a steamer between the crew and a number of Burmese coolies, in which six persons were wounded.

At Quirpon Labrador, on the 4th inst., three schooners, the Wild Briar, Girapin and Susan, were wrecked in a snow storm. One hundred and twenty-eight persons were lost.

The lining of furnace No. 2, of the Cherry Valley iron works, at Leontonia, O., failed on Saturday night, compelling them to blow out and put in new lining. The remaining heating furnace in the rolling mill of the Cherry Valley iron works are to be put in operation this week.

The British steamship Rathmore, Capt. Rotolo, which sailed from Baltimore Tuesday last with a large cargo including 316 cattle for London, returned with Capt. Rotolo dead. A number of cattle were swept overboard and others were badly injured. The first officer, Mitchell, reports that on Thursday night a heavy sea was encountered, and while the men were securing top-sail a gin-block over the forward hatch fell on the captain's skull, killing him instantly.

A fire in Farmington, Minn., Sunday night, destroyed four-fifths of the business part of the town. Engines were sent from St. Paul and Minneapolis, which finally gained control of the flames. The following are the principal losses: C. R. Criele, general loss, $22,000; Insurance, $11,000; Milwaukee and St. Paul elevator, containing 60,000 to 70,000 bushels of wheat, total loss; insurance on the wheat, owned by Archibald & Schurmitz, St. Paul, $27,000; other insurance unknown; Atz & Toner, hardware, $10,000; insurance, $2,000; Deitman's bank, loss $2,000; insurance large. Eighteen buildings in all were destroyed, including the depot and elevator, two hotels, stores and dwelling houses.

Maine's Mudpie.

The governor and council have given notice that they will be in session from the 1st to the 13th of December, for the purpose of examining the official returns and canvass the claimed irregularities, or other causes presented to vitiate their election. Contesting candidates will have an opportunity to be heard personally or by duly authorized counsel. Immediately after the promulgation of this order, Baker addressed a letter to the supreme court, Chief Justice Appleton, as follows: "Since you issued notices of a mandamus to show cause why senators and representatives should not be allowed to examine the official returns of their election, and since the associate justices of the court have unanimously consented to meet with you at Augusta on Tuesday next, to hear those petitions, we are informed that the governor and council have passed the enclosed order. It is the undeniable right of our clients, under the laws of our state, to examine the election returns to-day, as it has been every day since the governor and council declared by a formal order that the returns were open, and then persistently refused to exhibit them. Our clients will moreover insist that the twenty days allowed them by law for application for correction of returns shall not begin to run against them till the returns are practically open for their examination, but assuming that they are closed by an order of the council, thus publicly issued, will it be carried out in good faith by affording our clients full opportunity to examine the returns on and after December 1st? We did not deem it our duty to repress a hearing on the petitions on the day ordered, but will make them returnable at the second term of court for the county of Oxford, which begins Tuesday, December 2nd, 1879, as this is the earliest term of court that will be in session in the state, and respectfully request a new order of the notice, returnable accordingly."

Festered Peruvians.

The long-heralded descent of the Chilians on the Peruvian coast has been attempted and made. On Sunday morning, the 2nd inst., sixteen of the enemy's vessels appeared off Pisagua, and without loss of time directed their course toward the shore. Pisagua was defended by a detachment of 900 Bolivian troops. Two Parrot rifles, 100 pounders, were mounted on the bluff overlooking the town, but it is asserted were without adequate shell. The fight was heavy and the loss of life great. The shore batteries made a gallant resistance, but Pisagua was captured and Berunda retired towards San Bernardo, a short two leagues from the scene of the battle. A battle inland must soon take place. Telegrams just received announce that Berunda has fallen back upon Pucall Grande, on the fourteen-mile stretch between the inland terminus of the Pisagua Railroad, and had been joined by reinforcements, making in all about 9,000 men. The Chilian advance was at Santa Catalina, thirty miles or more from Pisagua, on the railroad and still going forward. Buendias, Pontusio, Prado and Diaz or their columns, must also be advanced towards the province of Tacna from Africa and Tacna, directly in the rear of the Chilians. The number of the latter is variously estimated, probably 10,000 or 11,000 soldiers. Huila has been declared under martial law. All citizens capable of bearing arms must enroll themselves in the national guard regiment.

The Redskins.

Paymaster Stanton arrived at Rawlins, W. T., from the White River agency Sunday, and reports everything quiet and no signs of Indians in the neighborhood of the agency. Gen. Merrill left White River Saturday for Rawlins with the Third cavalry. Three companies of infantry and four companies of cavalry, under command of Lieut. Col. Gilberts, remain at White River this winter.

Prominent army officers in Washington are by no means sanguine of the ultimate success by the commission in its efforts to procure the designation and surrender by the White River Utes of the murderers of Agent Meeker and instigators of the assault upon Thornburgh's command. The belief is generally expressed in army circles that the Indians have been, and are still, trying to gain time, in hope that the military operations against them will be prevented by winter weather, and that the guilty members of the tribe may scatter before the spring season opens so as to elude either detection or punishment. Gen. Sherman says that in the event of the interior department failing in its present efforts to obtain possession of the murderers, the army would be on the spot and make short work of them in the spring or summer, if necessary. He believes that the winter will so reduce the condition of their ponies as to make it impossible for them to escape.

JOHN MORRISSEY'S WIDOW.

An Interesting Talk—How John Morrissey Learned to Read, etc. [New York Letter to Philadelphia Record.]

In a modest little brick house, nestled under the shadow of the great brown stone structures on West Twenty-fifth street, in this city, lives Mrs. John Morrissey. Her surroundings give no indication of the tumultuous life her husband led. Her life is one of retirement and quiet. Her time is spent in attending to her birds, with her books and her music, and occasionally entertaining a few friends. She does not go into society, in the ordinary acceptance of that expression, as she did in the days her husband ruled the political destiny of a large part of this city, nor is she yet a recluse. Her grief for her husband's loss has not been assuaged by time, and it is not likely she will ever again resume her old relations socially. The history of this woman is as yet an unwritten chapter, but when it is told, as soon as it must be, there will be presented such a character in womanhood as will excite admiration from every fair-minded person to whom the story of her husband's career is one of interest. On a journalistic mission I came in contact with Mrs. Morrissey this week, and, perhaps, to better have you appreciate her, it would be well to detail in part the features of the interview. She sat on a low sofa, dressed in a flowing black wrapper. A diamond solitaire sparkled on her finger, and an open locket, out of which smiled the features of her husband, was suspended about her neck. Having concluded the business which brought us together, she continued the conversation and said: "I rarely go out now. When John was stricken with his last illness he called me to him and said: 'Susie, promise three things. I am going to die. I know it, and that blank side of the monument up in Troy will bear my name first. I want you never to come to that grave after you see my body laid there until you are brought there to be laid beside me. I hope that will be many a year from now. I want you not to wear mourning more than a year for me, and I want the inscription on my gravestone to be simple and of few words.' I promised him, but there are things the heart will not allow me to do, and among them was that I should not come to his tomb, and that I should in a short twelve months renounce my mourning. He has been dead seventeen months now, and I cannot take off my black dress. John and I were married twenty-five years ago. It was just after the Yankee Sullivan fight. We were married when he beat John Heenan; and, although in those days when he went into the ring I always sent him from me with the injunction to beat his man, my soul revolved at the thought of a prize battle. But it was my great hope to have him succeed in life. He came back from California and visited our house in Troy to bring some message from my brother, whom he had left there. In three weeks after that we were engaged, and a few months after that we were married. I knew John as a ragged little boy about Troy, barefooted and belligerent, always looking for a fight. When we were married he could not read or write, and, to tell the truth, I was only a trifle better off in the matter of educational advantages, and I told him he must learn to read, and he said I must teach him. Well, we established lesson hours. Every night before going to bed he devoted himself to his spelling-book, and in the morning one hour to writing in a copy-book. The rule of study was inflexible. We made it so. The morning after he fought John C. Heenan, when he was all sore and bandaged, and blind of one eye as well, I propped him up with pillows and made him write."

"How long, Mrs. Morrissey, did you keep him a pupil?"

"Till his fatal illness, every night he studied something, and I studied during the day that I might be able to help him. Of course, when I say studied I don't mean in the ordinary school children's way. After we married the English branches we took up history, and when he was pretty well posted in that we made the living topics of the day a matter of investigation—the European news, the speeches of the great men. I read them in the daytime, and John would go through them at nights. Then we took up books as De Quincey, the writings of Carlyle, and, though John Morrissey was a gambler, and by his profession made many enemies who frowned upon him, he was possessed of knowledge on many subjects, independent of city politics and horse-racing, which would have put to blush his sternest critics had they been in competition with him."

"Did Mr. Morrissey follow this line of study, because of a natural bent of mind?"

"I don't think so. He would say, 'Now, this is no good for me, Susie; but I pressed him on and he would soon get interested. Then he had such an indomitable perseverance. When he found a thing he could not really understand he would master it out of every page. I remember once of his throwing down his arithmetic shortly after we were married, and exclaiming pettishly: 'I don't care about these fractions; they're only part of a thing, any way. What's the use of all this study, Susie?' 'John,' I said, 'if you don't beat these fractions you will never go to congress.' 'Oh, that's your lay out for me, is it?' 'It is, indeed, my boy,' I replied. Then he took up his book again and said: 'All right, my dear; we'll go to congress.' And he did."

I could continue this talk of Mrs. Morrissey's throughout the columns of your paper, and much she said would be of interest. I will only repeat her last remark as I left her: 'We had ten children. I sit alone to-day. There are ten little graves and one large one, where all my ambition for my own lies buried.' The tears started to her eyes as she spoke.

VIC'S VICTIMS

In Ireland are Determined to Protect the "Old Sod" in the Future.

The Sligo prisoners will be charged before the county magistrates to-day. Only members of the press will be admitted. Two solicitors will defend Davitt and Dailey. Killen will defend himself. The request of the visitors to visit the prisoners on Sunday was refused.

The Standard correspondent at Balla, describes the meeting at Lonsmore as being singularly tame. Less than 1,000 persons were present. The Cincinnati Gazette publishes interviews with two business men of Belfast, Ireland, now in that city, in which they state that rendering aid to Ireland at this juncture would be regarded as interference with the British government; that there is really no distress that requires such extraordinary measures of relief, and that if they send money and provisions to Ireland it would be so much aid to the Irish in their struggle against the British government.

The services of Philip Callan, liberal member of parliament, in defence of the Sligo prisoners, have been declined.

A large meeting of Irishmen and Irish sympathizers was held at Newcastle on the Tyne, Saturday. A meeting was also held Sunday at Manchester, where only 300 persons were present, and at Birmingham, where the hall was crowded. At all of them resolutions were passed protesting against the arrests of Davitt, Killen and Dailey.

One of the greatest demonstrations that ever occurred in County Mayo was held at Sanford, Sunday. Nearly 30,000 farmers were present. Farnell made a speech in support of the resolution which was adopted condemning the action of the government.

Poverty and Suffering.

"I was dragged down with debt, poverty and suffering for years, caused by a sick family and large bills for doctoring, which did them no good. I was completely discouraged, until one year ago, by the advice of my pastor, I procured Hop Bitters and commenced their use, and in one month we were all well, and none of us have seen a sick day since, and I want to say to all poor men, you can keep your families well a year with Hop Bitters for less than one doctor's visit will cost. I know it. A Workingman."

Kirk, in the New York World, has completed a table of the winnings of George L. Lorillard's stable, amounting to $37,052.29, and says this should be increased by the addition of $11,000. He started 18 horses 175 times, was first 55 times, second 45, third 25, unplaced 50 times.

ROBERT A. MEERS, Notary Public.

THE grand jury, at its next session, will probably look into some questionable official operations of that sweet scented rascal, Constable GRAHAM. This is the fellow who claims that the SENTINEL has damaged his reputation $2,000 worth.

OUR venerable fellow citizen, uncle JESSE WILLIAMS, exhibits a remarkable disinclination to tackle the conundrums recently propounded to him through these columns by correspondents. Uncle JESSE, in this silence, exhibits a praiseworthy amount of discretion which some of his newspaper adherents would do well to imitate.

The radical state of Kansas cries "Hold enough," to the negro immigrants. The Kansans complain that their labor market is being overstocked, and that a large pauper element is being added to their population, thus materially increasing the people's burdens. That's what the radicals propose to do for Indiana, in the vain effort to make it a republican state.

It has been intimated that WILLIAM FLEMING was mixed up in the Richmond bond matter. Without imputing the slightest wrong or dishonesty to those who secured the issuing and delivering of these bonds, it is but justice to say that he was opposed from the beginning to the donation to the Richmond road as well as all the railroad bonds voted by the city, those only excepted which were issued in aid of the Grand Rapids road.

A LITTLE presidential boom has been started for CHARLES FRANCIS ADAMS. Mr. ADAMS is a man of culture, statesmanship and irreproachable personal character. He would doubtless make an admirable president and would once have made a strong candidate, but his day has passed. Mr. ADAMS is not popular with the people. He is regarded as a cold blooded, wealthy aristocrat; and there is nothing about him to stir up popular enthusiasm. He is not an organizer or political leader. The ADAMS boom will be short lived.

GEN. TOM BRADY has recently made a fortune by stock speculations, and has purchased a $50,000 residence in Washington. Having his barrel well filled, he is said to cherish the idea of depicting it a little by making a race for the governorship of Indiana. His organ, the sprightly Muncie Times, intimates that if the general goes for the nomination he will get it, and adds (facetiously, we presume) that if nominated he would be elected. The Times warns other aspirants to get off the track. Gen. BRADY, although a bitter radical, is a very clever and popular gentleman, and we should hate to see his political aspirations blasted by an attempt to lead the republican forlorn hope in 1880.

STATE TREASURER FLEMING on Saturday negotiated $200,000 of 5 percent Indiana bonds, to be issued on the 1st prox. at a premium of 27. This is a remarkably good sale—the best we believe in the history of the state. The bonds only run five years, and at 5 percent interest this premium is remarkably large and was wholly unexpected. It proves the falsity of the cry that the democratic party is a repudiation party. Indiana is the most reliable democratic state in the north, and it promises to remain so; yet its credit is unsurpassed by that of any state in the country. State Treasurer FLEMING has displayed his well-known skill and sagacity in negotiating the securities of the state

since he went into office. It pays to have an experienced and trained financier for treasurer of state.

Gov. GARCELON, of Maine, in an interview with a Herald correspondent says that the state council will do nothing in the way of certifying the returns of the election which the law and their official oaths do not require them to do, and that they will act with rigid impartiality, treating democrats, greenbackers and republicans alike. If the republicans suffer in the process it will be only because they have been guilty of fraud, or have not complied with the laws which they themselves passed. Gov. GARCELON's integrity is undoubted and there is no reason to doubt that he tells the exact truth. Senators BLAINE and HAMLIN will have little popular sympathy in their cries about "fraud" especially in view of their unsavory record in defending the enormities perpetrated by the Louisiana and Florida returning boards.

THE IRISH TROUBLES.

The situation of affairs in Ireland is daily becoming more serious and critical. The Irish tenantry are thoroughly aroused, and as they have a good cause, strong leaders, and have thus far acted with considerable moderation, the British government is not unnaturally alarmed. PARNELL, the head and front of the land agitation, is a young man of brains, culture and ability. His utterances are universally characterized by wisdom, prudence and patriotism. He advises no incendiary measures. He tells his followers to assert their rights peacefully but firmly, and to be ready to defend them if necessary, but to avoid a collision as long as possible. There is believed to be a perfect understanding between the Irish tenantry and the agricultural laborers of England, which makes the movement more formidable than it otherwise would be. The recent arrests of Irish newspaper men, and the dispatch of English troops to Balla may bring on a collision which will usher in a bloody insurrection. This, it is to be hoped, may be averted. There is reason to believe that the approaching elections will show large gains for the liberals, and that the agitation, if peaceably conducted according to PARNELL's ideas, will force parliament to proper concessions at an early day. Among the probable results of the movement is a large increase of Irish emigration to America.

As the SENTINEL has before said, the complaints of the Irish tenantry are well founded. Their wrongs are grievous and should be redressed. Their rents are unjust and oppressive and should be largely reduced. The curse of landlord absenteeism should be removed, and the tenantry afforded an opportunity to acquire ownership of the land they till. Their cause is just. Of its ultimate triumph there can be no doubt. Let us hope that the victory will come about peacefully and not through civil war.

STATE POLITICS.

Gen. Veatch is the last republican to say that he won't run for governor. The Huntington Democrat believes Grant will be nominated by the republicans.

This from the Logansport Pharos: Thomas A. Hendricks's prospect for becoming president of the United States was never so bright as now.

The Indianapolis Democrat wants Wm. H. English for president and Col. Grey for governor.

The Auburn Republican suggests Nicholas Ensley (republican) of that place for treasurer of state.

The South Bend Tribune says: Clarkson N. Potter has suddenly dropped out of sight as the man to occupy a place on the presidential ticket.

The Elkhart Democrat says: Senator McDonald is advocating Thomas A. Hendricks for the presidency, notwithstanding the loud call for himself to take a place on the ticket.

The Frankfort Crescent thinks the ticket ought to be and probably will be David Davis and Clarkson N. Potter.

The Peru Sentinel says: The Leaders movement is fast dying out. We scarcely see his name mentioned now in connection with the governorship, except, of course, in the Indianapolis Sentinel.

The Auburn Courier well says: Should the mischievous leaders of the republican party succeed in electing a president in 1880, the people can look forward to the most eventful year in their history.

The Bluffton Banner is a "little off" too. It says: Hon. William Fleming has been appointed chairman of the democratic state central committee. "No solid south, no solid north, but a solid Union."

The following stands at the head of the editorial columns of the Auburn Courier:

For president, Thomas A. Hendricks; subject to the decision of the democratic national convention. "No solid south, no solid north, but a solid Union."

The Logansport Journal says: The Journal predicts that Indiana will furnish the republican candidate for vice president, if Gen. Grant is not called to the higher nomination by the whole country. In the latter case the ticket will be Grant and Blaine.

The Bluffton Chronicle, speaking of Venezuela Orth's predictions that Indiana will go republican next year, remarks that:

Mr. Orth is one of the shrewdest politicians in the party, and speaks not only from his convictions but from extensive observation.

The Auburn Courier sits down on Bayard thusly:

Democrats who are advocating the nomination of Hon. Thomas F. Bayard for president should bear in mind that he advocated the adoption of the electoral commission bill, and that he was a member of the electoral commission. We might suggest other good reasons why he would not make a strong candidate.

The Jeffersonian News relieves itself of the following:

We can succeed, and will succeed next year by the selection of some such democrat as Bayard—some democrat who will not have to face about the money question; but as it is now Tilden means defeat, and probably the last struggle the democracy will make as a party for supremacy in national affairs.

PERSONAL.

Maj. Thornburgh's body has been buried with Masonic ceremonies in Omaha, Neb. In the same grave was laid the body of his little boy, who died a short time ago.

Senator Lamar's mother, a venerable woman of seventy-seven years, died at her home in Vineville, Ga., a few days ago. Her intellectual attainments were of the highest order.

Mr. Gladstone is newly described as an active, lithe, muscular man; his face is scholarly and cultivated, with the outlines boldly defined by that meagreness of muscle which distinguishes the intellectual athlete.

Senator Chandler's coffin was made in Rochester, and the undertaker's firm which supplied it print in a local newspaper, as an advertisement, a description of it, dilating on this last tribute to Rochester "home talent."

Mrs. Grant says that the general once lost all his money in a potato speculation. He paid $750 for 150 bushels of potatoes, planted them, expecting to make a large profit, but when they were ripe potatoes were too cheap to pay for the digging.

In the list of those who were presented to Gen. and Mrs. Grant, at the ladies' reception, were Gen. and Mrs. John McDonald, formerly of St. Louis; the lady in question being Sylph, while both names were connected with the whiskey frauds of that city.

Miss Maude White, the only woman who has ever gained the Mendelssohn scholarship at the Royal Academy of Music, is now at work upon an opera. Her libretto is taken from Larmaine's "Jocelyn," and the young composer's ardent hope is that when her work is produced she may be allowed to guide the orchestra.

The Atheneum announces that Mrs. Rodgers, a daughter of Mr. John Burton Hill, will soon bring out a novel entitled "Bonnie Mary Jamesone." The heroine of the story is a daughter of a Scotch painter who painted, after her father's designs, the interesting tapestries preserved in St. Nicholas's Church, Aberdeen.

Mr. Pierre Lorillard has paid the duty and secured the release of the Epsom cup, won by his horse, Parole, on May 30. The cup was entered at the New York custom house as a "manufacture of gold and silver," valued at $2,499. The duty was assessed at 40 percent making the amount paid $999.60.

Chicago Tribune: A young woman at Smyrna, New York, had a dream, many years ago, of eight men standing in a row before her with outstretched hands. She interpreted this to mean that she would have eight husbands. Her seventh husband died lately, and although she is now eighty-four, the local sports are betting $10 to $6 against time.

Once a young man applied to Dr. O. W. Holmes for employment as an amanuensis. The doctor replied that he was able to do all his own writing, with a little aid occasionally from members of his family. He added that there was little chance for securing such employment in Boston, as most of the Boston authors were as poor as sots, and as little able to employ an amanuensis as to set up a coach and six.

Senator Booth's dinner to Gen. Grant at Sacramento had a merry surprise in the midst of it. Forty-five gentlemen sat down to the table and dinner was nearly finished, when suddenly the folding doors at one end of the room, which the table nearly touched, were thrown open and behold! there was another room of the same size as the first and down were seated forty-five ladies with Mrs. Grant, all of whom had been dining comfortably while. The gentlemen arose, applauded and waved handkerchiefs, the ladies returned the cordial greetings and the evening most pleasantly proceeded.

The Empress Eugenie has left England for Madrid, via Paris, under an assumed name, to visit her mother, the Countess Montijo, who is reported ill.

Nordenskjold, journeying homeward, received complimentary demonstrations at Kobe and Kagasaki, the central and southwestern open ports of Japan.

Cardinal Nina, papal secretary of state, is accused of using one language officially to the Belgian ministry, and another privately to the bishops, and fresh difficulties are apprehended.

Last August Gen Grant presented a valuable drop curtain to the manager of the principal theatre in Tokio. The manager now sends in return a splendid set of harness, ornamented in gold lacquer.

The new French cable was formally inaugurated Friday by a telegram from Grevy, president of the French republic, to the president of the United States, expressing the most cordial relations.

The Porte has made an important communication to the British government, tending to prove that there will be no unnecessary delay in the introduction of reforms demanded by England, and Lord Salisbury, British foreign secretary, has given assurances that his government fully understands the financial and other difficulties of the Porte, and does not wish to complicate the situation by menace.

Moody and Sankey, revivalists, will inaugurate a series of religious meetings at St. Louis, on Tuesday night.

The boiler makers in St. Louis have formed an organization, and will demand an advance of 10 to 15 percent in wages this week.

The leading brewers of Cincinnati have been trying to secure uniformity in prices and an increase in the price of beer, to this end endeavoring to obtain pledges of all to maintain rates at $8 per barrel. Failing in this, they propose to consolidate their interests, forming a joint stock company, thus greatly reducing expenses.

The Spanish government has received official reports that in the province of Santiago de Cuba, troops of the Ayuso brigade on the 15th inst. attacked a camp of Quilemo's men, killing six insurgents and burning 300 huts, which the followers of Quilemo had built in the province of Santa Clara. The Spaniards defeated a party of insurgents, who abandoned their horses in their flight.

The following are the messages between President Hayes and President Grevy, opening to the public the new French cable: The president of the French inaugurates the new cable, which unites France and America, by sending expressions of his most cordial sentiments to the president of the republic of the United States. President Hayes sent the following reply to the president of the French republic, Paris: The president of the United States acknowledges, with great satisfaction, the agreeable communication by which the president of the French republic makes known to him the completion and successful operation of the trans-Atlantic cable, and hopes that it may never be a vehicle of any other messages between the governments and people of the countries than those of friendship and respect.

At Quirpon Labrador, on the 4th inst., three schooners, the Wild Brier, Girapin and Susan, were wrecked in a snow storm. One hundred and twenty-eight persons were lost.

The lining of furnace No. 2, of the Cherry Valley iron works, at Leontonia, O., caved in Saturday night, compelling them to blow out and put in new lining. The few remaining heating furnaces in the rolling mill of the Cherry Valley iron works are to be put in operation this week.

The British steamship Rathmore, Capt. Rowels, which sailed from Baltimore Tuesday last with a large cargo including 346 cattle for London, returned with Capt. Rowels dead. A number of cattle were swept overboard and others were badly injured. The first officer, Mitchell, reports that on Thursday night a heavy sea was encountered, and while the men were securing top-sail a gin-block over the forward hatch fell on the captain's skull, killing him instantly.

A fire in Farmington, Minn., Sunday night, destroyed four-fifths of the business part of the town. Engines were sent from St. Paul and Minneapolis, which finally gained control of the flames. Griede, general loss, $23,000; insurance, $11,000; Milwaukee and St. Paul elevator, containing 60,000 to 70,000 bushels of wheat, total loss, insurance on the wheat, owned by Archibald & Schurmitte, St. Paul, $27,000; other insurance unknown; Atz & Toner, hardware, $10,000; insurance, $2,000; Detman's bank, loss $2,000; insurance large. Eighteen buildings in all were destroyed, including the depot and elevator, two hotels, stores and dwelling houses.

Maine's Kaddish.

The governor and council have given notice that they will be in session from the 1st to the 13th of December, for the purpose of examining the official returns and canvass the claimed irregularities, or other causes presumed to vitiate their election. Contesting candidates will have an opportunity to be heard personally, or by duly authorized counsel. Immediately after the promulgation of this order, Baker addressed a letter to the supreme court, Chief Justice Appleton, as follows: "Since you issued notices of a man-lamus to show cause why senators and representatives should not be allowed to examine the official returns of their election, and since the associate justices of the court have unanimously consented to meet with you at Augusta on Tuesday next, to hear those petitions, we are informed that the governor and council have passed the enclosed order. It is the undeniable right of our clients, under the laws of our state, to examine the election returns to-day, as it has been every day since the governor and council declared by a formal order that the returns were open, and then persistently refused to exhibit them. Our clients will moreover insist that the twenty days allowed them by law for application for correction of returns shall not begin to run against them till the returns are practically open for their examination, but assuming that they are closed by an order of the court, thus publicly issued, will be carried out in good faith by affording our clients full opportunity to examine the returns on and after December 1st? We did not deem it our duty to repress a hearing on the petitions on the day ordered, but will make them returnable at the second term of court for the county of Oxford, which begins Tuesday, December 2nd, 1879, as this is the earliest term of court that will be in session in the state, and respectfully request a new order of the notice, returnable accordingly."

Fostered Peruvians.

The long-heralded descent of the Chilians on the Peruvian coast has been attempted and made. On Sunday morning, the 2nd inst., sixteen of the enemy's vessels appeared off Pisco, and without loss of time directed their course toward the shore. Pisco was defended by a detachment of 900 Bolivian troops. Two Parrot rifles, 100 pounders, were mounted on the bluff, but the light was without adequate shell. The fight was heavy and the loss of life great. The shore batteries made a gallant resistance, but Pisco was captured and Berenda retired towards San Bernardo, a short two leagues from the scene of the battle. A battle inland must soon take place. Telegrams just received announce that Berenda has fallen back upon Puenla Gaude, on the fourteen-mile stretch between the inland termini of the Pisco Railroad, and had been joined by reinforcements, making in all about 9,000 men. The Chilian advance was at Santa Catalina, thirty miles or more from Pisco, on the railroad and still going forward. Buenas, Pontious, Prado and Daza or their columns, must also be advanced towards the province of Trapa from Africa and Tacna, directly in the rear of the Chilians. The number of the latter is variously estimated, probably 10,000 or 11,000 soldiers. Huila has been declared under martial law. All citizens capable of bearing arms must enroll themselves in the national guard regiment.

The Redskins.

Paymaster Stanton arrived at Rawlins, W. T., from the White River agency Sunday, and reports everything quiet and no signs of Indians in the neighborhood of the agency. Gen. Merritt left White River Saturday for Rawlins with the Third cavalry. Three companies of infantry and four companies of cavalry, under command of Lieut. Col. Gilberts, remain at White River this winter.

Prominent army officers in Washington are by no means sanguine of the ultimate success by the commission in its efforts to procure the designation and surrender by the White River Utes of the murderers of Agent Meeker and instigators of the assault upon Thornburg's command. The belief is generally expressed in army circles that the Indians have been, and are still, trying to gain time, in hope that the military operations against them will be prevented by winter weather, and that the guilty members of the tribe may scatter before the spring season opens so as to elude either detection or punishment. Gen. Sherman says that in the event of the interior department failing in its present efforts to obtain possession of the murderers, the army would be on the spot and make short work of them in the spring or sooner, if necessary. He believes that the winter will so reduce the condition of their ponies as to make it impossible for them to escape.

JOHN MORRISSEY'S WIDOW.

An Interesting Talk—How John Morrissey Learned to Read, etc.

[New York Letter to Philadelphia Record.] In a modest little brick house, nestled under the shadow of the great brown stone structures on West Twenty-fifth street, in this city, lives Mrs. John Morrissey. Her surroundings give no indication of the tumultuous life her husband led. Her life is one of retirement and quiet. Her time is spent in attending to her birds, with her books and her music, and occasionally entertaining a few friends. She does not go into society, in the ordinary acceptance of that expression, as she did in the days her husband ruled the political destiny of a large part of this city, nor is she yet a recluse. Her grief for her husband's loss has not been assuaged by time, and it is not likely she will ever again resume her old relations socially. The history of this woman is as yet an unwritten chapter; but, when it is told, as some day it must be, there will be presented such a character in womanhood as will excite admiration from every fair-minded person to whom the story of her husband's career is one of interest. On a journalistic mission I came in contact with Mrs. Morrissey this week, and, perhaps, to better have you appreciate her, it would be well to detail in part the features of the interview. She sat on a low sofa, dressed in a flowing black wrapper. A diamond solitaire sparkled on her finger, and an open locket, out of which smiled the features of her husband, was suspended about her neck. Having concluded our business, she brought us together, she continued the conversation and said: "I rarely go out now. When John was stricken with his last illness he called me to him and said: 'Susie, promise three things. I am going to die. I know it, and that blank side of the monument up in Troy will bear my name first. I want you never to come to that grave after you see my body laid there until you are brought there to be laid beside me. I hope that will be many a year from now. I want you not to wear mourning more than a year for me, and I want the inscription on my gravestone to be simple and of few words.' I promised him, but there are things the heart will not allow me to do, and among them was that I should not come to his tomb, and that I should in a short twelve months announce my mourning. He has been dead seventeen months now, and I cannot take off my black dress. John and I were married twenty-five years ago. It was just after the Yankee Sullivan fight. We were married when he beat John Heenan; and, although in those days when he went into the ring I always sent him from me with the injunction to beat his man, my soul revolted at the thought of a prize battle. But it was my great hope to have him succeed in life. He came back from California and visited our house in Troy to bring some message from my brother, whom he had left there. In three weeks after that we were engaged, and a few months after that we were married. I knew John as a ragged little boy about Troy, barefooted and belligerent, always looking for a fight. When we were married he could not read or write, and to tell the truth, I was only a trifle better off in the matter of educational advantages, and I told him he must learn to read, and he said I must teach him. Well, we established lesson hours. Every night before going to bed he devoted himself to his spelling-book, and in the morning one hour to writing in a copy-book. The rule of study was inflexible. We made it so. The morning after he fought John C. Heenan, when he was all sore and bandaged, and blind of one eye as well, I propped him up with pillows and made him write."

"How long, Mrs. Morrissey, did you keep him a pupil?"

"Till his fatal illness, every night he studied something, and I studied during the day that I might be able to help him. Of course, when I say studied I don't mean in the ordinary school children's way. After we mastered the English branches we took up history, and when he was pretty well posted in that we made the living topics of the day a matter of investigation—the European news, the speeches of the great men. I read them in the daytime, and John would go through them at nights. Then we took up books as De Quincy, the writings of Carlyle, and, though John Morrissey was a gambler, and by his profession made many enemies who frowned upon him, he was possessed of knowledge on many subjects, independent of city politics and horse-racing, which would have put to blush his sternest critics had they been in competition with him."

"Did Mr. Morrissey follow this line of study, because of a natural bent of mind?"

"I don't think so. He would say, 'Now, this is no good for me, Susie,' but I pressed him on and he would soon get interested. Then he had such an indomitable perseverance. When he found a thing he could not really understand he would master it out of very spite. I remember once of his throwing down his arithmetic shortly after we were married, and exclaiming pettishly: 'I don't care about these fractions; they're only part of a thing, any way. What's the use of all this study, Susie?' John, I said, 'if you don't beat those fractions you will never go to congress.' 'Oh, then you'll lay out for me, is it?' 'It is, indeed, my boy,' I replied. Then he took up his book again and said: 'All right, my dear; we'll go to congress.' And he did."

I could continue this talk of Mrs. Morrissey's throughout the columns of your paper, and much she said would be of interest. I will only repeat her last remark as I left her: 'We had ten children. I sit here alone to-day. There are ten little graves and one large one, where all my ambition for my own lies buried.' The tears started to her eyes as she spoke."

VIC'S VICTIMS

In Ireland are Determined to Protect the "Old Sod" in the Future.

The Sligo prisoners will be charged before the county magistrates to-day. Only members of the press will be admitted. Two solicitors will defend Davitt and Dailey. Killen will defend himself. The request of the visitors to visit the prisoners on Sunday was refused.

The Standard correspondent at Balla, describes the meeting at Lonsome as being singularly tame. Less than 1,000 persons were present.

The Cincinnati Gazette publishes interviews with two business men of Belfast, Ireland, now in that city, in which they state that rendering aid to Ireland at this juncture would be regarded as interference with the British government; that there is really no distress that requires such extraordinary measures of relief, and that if they send money and provisions to Ireland it would be so much aid to the Irish in their struggle against the British government.

The services of Philip Callan, liberal member of parliament, in defence of the Sligo prisoners, have been declined.

A large meeting of Irishmen and Irish sympathizers was held at Newcastle on the Tyne, Saturday. A meeting was also held Sunday at Manchester, where only 300 persons were present, and at Birmingham, where the hall was crowded. At all of them resolutions were passed protesting against the arrests of Davitt, Killan and Dailey.

One of the greatest demonstrations that ever occurred in County Mayo was held at Salford, Sunday. Nearly 20,000 farmers were present. Farnell made a speech in support of the resolution which was adopted condemning the action of the government.

Poverty and Suffering.

"I was dragged down with debt, poverty and suffering for years, caused by a sick family and large bills for doctoring, which did them no good. I was completely discouraged, until one year ago, by the advice of my pastor, I procured Hop Bitters and commenced their use, and in one month we were all well, and none of us have seen a sick day since, and I want to say to all poor men, you can keep your families well a year with Hop Bitters for less than one doctor's visit will cost. I know it. A Workingman."

THE JUVENILES.

Decidedly the best attraction of the season—Ford's Juvenile Opera Company, from New York, Boston, Philadelphia and Baltimore, will appear at the Academy this evening, when "H. M. S. There is talk of a narrow gauge railroad from Toledo to Lafayette, to be built on the tow-path of the defunct Wabash & Erie canal, provided aid be voted along the line. Almost any one could build a railroad if some one else would furnish the money. This country has too many railroad projects of that kind now and from observation we have noticed that they are a slow go.

The Fort Wayne SENTINEL has a $2,000 libel suit on its hands. The injured party is Geo. E. Graham, a constable, whom the SENTINEL accused of being drunk and arresting parties without authority. The SENTINEL proposes to show George up in his true colors.

What They Say.

Rev. J. E. Rankin, D. C., of Washington, D. C., certifies of Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Cure. "I do not doubt that it has great virtue." Rev. C. A. Harvey, D. D., Secretary of Howard University, certifies that for Bright's disease "no other remedy can be held for one moment in comparison with this." E. W. Neff, of Detroit, Mich., certifies that it completely cured him of a very serious chronic liver complaint. J. H. Sherlock, of Rochester, N. Y., certifies that it cured him of Bright's disease of several years' standing, and that he believes it to be the most valuable remedy ever discovered. These are samples of hundreds of other testimonials.

Indiana's State Seal.

A man is chopping down a tree; The sun is shining in the east; A buffalo bull comes tearing by, But the man pays no attention whatever to the wild-eyed, heavy-shouldered, westward-bound beast.

STATE NEWS.

The Pullman Palace Car Company will shortly erect a spacious factory at Indianapolis, employing 500 men.
An unknown man, from all appearances a tramp, was found horribly mangled, lying on the railroad track near Weisburg, Friday morning.

The store room of Zimmermann & Stephens, at Leesburg, was burglarized Friday evening. The thieves secured about $20 in money and merchandise.

The governor has pardoned William Butler, sent up from this county in April last, for larceny. He was convicted of receiving stolen railroad tickets.

Friday afternoon a little son of Martin Miller, residing in Jeffersonville, was dreadfully scalded about the arms and breast by overturning a coffee-pot while playing about the stove.

All the railroads in the state, except the Pan Handle, will carry uniformed and armed companies to Indianapolis on the occasion of the Grant reception, at one dollar per head, without regard to distance.

Patrick Kelly, in the employ of the Western Union Telegraph Company at Indianapolis, was dangerously injured, Thursday evening, while working on the cross piece of a pole, the piece breaking and throwing him to the ground.

While George Bevins and the young son of Nathan Pierce, colored, were "fooling" at Indianapolis, Bevins threw a screw-driver, entirely destroying the sight of Pierce's right eye, the sharp end cutting the optic from center to circumference.

The New Albany and Louisville train met with an accident at New Albany, Saturday. A switch was thrown the wrong way, causing the train to jump the track. The end of one car was stove up, but fortunately none of the passengers were seriously injured.

Friday evening, at the close of a temperance lecture at the Baptist Church in Adams, Caleb Markland became angry at some remarks made by the speaker, Mr. Griffith, and attempted to thump him. A Mr. Bentley also wanted to bruise the disciple of Murphy, but was prevented from doing him harm by the presence of the peace-loving minister, who stopped him.

The flouring mill of Emison & Callender, at Vincennes, was burglarized Thursday night. They rolled the small Hall safe out of the office into the main part of the mill, and boring a hole in the top, filled it with powder, and blew off the doors. They gathered up the money drawer, which contained thirty trade dollars and about the same amount in change, and ran out of a side door. A son of the proprietor of the mill, John E. Callender, who lives near, was awakened by the noise, and ran out in his night clothes. One of the burglars fired a shot at him, the ball grazing his leg just above the knee. Two suspected persons have been arrested.

An old trouble was revived at Indianapolis on Friday. Miss Angie R. Thomas filed a $5,000 damage suit against George W. Galvin, a prominent attorney. Two years ago, the complainant alleges, she met Galvin on a business matter, and the acquaintance ripened until the two were engaged, and the wedding day appointed. Then she learned that he was married, his wife and children living in this city, and because she acquainted his wife of his duplicity he assaulted her upon the street and forbade her passing where his residence was situated. There seems to have been several fights, according to the complaint, in one of which the plaintiff had a rib broken, and it is for this injury, and to heal her lacerated heart, that the suit is brought. The defendant answers by a general denial.

LAFAYETTE'S LATEST.
Alleged Forged Notes Presented Against the Baker Estate by a Prominent Physician.
Shortly after the death of Lewis Baker, whose death by poisoning has been an unsolved mystery, three notes were brought to the office of County Clerk Chute and filed for collection. These promissory notes were drawn in favor of Charles H. Crain, and bore the signature "Lewis Baker." Two of the notes were for $550 each, and the third was for $361.50. They remained without any action having been taken in the matter until the executors disallowed them. Two weeks ago the executors gave notice that they would contest the payment of the notes, and secured for the purpose the testimony of Dr. Crain. The doctor refused to appear, and the matter came before the court. Since that time the case has come regularly upon the docket, and Friday the following petition was presented to Judge Vinton:

In the matter of the claim of Charles H. Crain, executor of the estate of Lewis Baker, deceased, against the executors of the estate of Lewis Baker, deceased, and in support of the claim of said executor, the following facts are submitted to the court: That said executor, Charles H. Crain, being duly sworn, on his oath says that said claim is now a suit pending in said court, being claim No. 619 on the claim docket of said court for said term, and said affidavit states that it is for the purpose of securing the payment of said claim, and that said claimant should be examined under oath touching his said claim prior to the trial of the case, and that said notes are believed to be forged; second, because said executor desires to know prior to the time of trial on said claims what was the exact consideration for said notes; third, because said executor is informed and believes that said claimant made contradictory statements in regard to the execution and consideration for said notes.

Wherefore the executors pray for an order for the examination of said claimant in pursuance to the statute for the examination of parties.

GODLOVE & BEHN.

There was a full attendance of the bar, as in all cases growing out of the Baker estate there are upwards of fifteen attorneys employed, and the interest in any proceeding affecting the estate is correspondingly great. Hereafter no direct charges have been made against Dr. Crain, and now that the imputation of presenting forged notes is cast upon his hitherto unblemished name and character, it becomes a matter of deep import.

Fort Wayne Ahead Again.
The Fort Wayne and New York papers of the same date arrive at this office at the same time with the utmost regularity.

That shows a great deal of enterprise on the part of Fort Wayne. We don't propose to let New York get ahead of us no how.

The Deepest Well.
(Terre Haute Express.)
The deepest well in the world is in Buda Pest, Hungary. Its depth is 3,500 feet. The temperature of the water is 153 degrees Fahrenheit.

Fort Wayne has got a hole in the ground just 3,500 feet deep, and now let us hear no more about any Hungry Beauty Pest.

Tossing Upon a Bed of Agency.
Tortured every joint with inflammatory rheumatism, is a prospect which may become a melancholy fact if the twinges of the dread disorder are not checked at the outset. Persons of a rheumatic tendency find Hostetter's Stomach Bitters a useful remedy, nor do they encounter the risk in using it they do from resorting to that active poison Colchicum, which is often employed to arrest the malady. The use of the Bitters is equally as effective in its results, and is attended with no risk. There is ample testimony to prove that this medicine possesses blood purifying qualities of no common order, besides those of a laxative. It cures the disease by the action of the kidneys and promotes the removal from the system of impurities which danger. Fever and ague, dyspepsia, debility, nervousness, constipation, etc., are remedied by it.

The Rev. Mr. Lysion, better known as Father Hyacinthe, still insists that he is a good Catholic notwithstanding his secession from the Church of Rome. To a recent Protestant visitor he avowed his unshaken belief in the real presence in the eucharist, and his conviction that no well ordered church could get along without bishops.

FEELS YOUNG AGAIN.
"My mother was afflicted a long time with Neuralgia and a dull, heavy, inactive brain. She was unable to do any kind of work, and was almost helpless. No physicians or medicines did her any good. She was told to use Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, with such good effect that she seems and feels young again, although she is now seventy years of age. I have used this medicine in my family. A lady, in Providence, R. I."

We Challenge the World.
When we say that we have evidence to prove that Shiloh's Consumption Cure is decidedly the best Lung Medicine made, inasmuch as it will cure a common or chronic cough, croup, whooping cough, asthma, bronchitis, whooping cough, croup, and show more cases of cure than any other medicine, we are not boasting. We are simply stating the facts. A lady, in Providence, R. I."

LUST AND LIQUOR

Brought out a Good Audience at Police Court This Morning.

Bad Boys and Gay Girls Before His Honor.

The mayor and city attorney played to a good house at the city hall this morning. Lew Schradzke, Mattie Morgan, W. R. Bronson, E. B. Sands and John McBride were the first called. They didn't appear, however, as their names were called, they appeared though before in undress uniform at Nellie Hines establishment. They came over to the station and left $10 each to show up for them. The city attorney smiled as he saw the ten-dollar Williams palm out, and then Nellie Hines was called. She didn't come up to the scratch, as usual, but $15 satisfied the greedy thirst of the law, and her case was dropped.

Michael Houshach got jubilant, and when Hombrecht tried to take him in he kicked and made himself generally disagreeable; $10 was the price of that little diversion.

William Yiff made a very ungentlemanly display of his person, and the consequence is that he won't display any part of his person to any one excepting Dick Meyers, the turnkey, for the next fourteen days.

Michael Hibbler, John Hibbler and Michael Houshach, were happy—they were so enthusiastically happy that they raised a fuss and were taken in for disorderly conduct. $10 each was their bill. They paid it off, and departed and the country was saved once more.

STANLEY'S SPREE.

It Ended Up With a Murderous Deed.

Fatal Stabbing Matinee at Geneva Saturday Night.

The Knife-Wielder Lodged in Allen County Jail.

Geneva was the scene of a probable drunken murder on last Saturday night, Aaron Bryant, the son of a well known merchant, having been stabbed in a

DRUNKEN SCUFFLE

by one Fred Stanley. Frederick has an interesting history dating back about forty-nine years and six months, which period would bring him to the point when he was a "babe on his mother's breast" away over in a place called England, but history does not stop there. It dates down to the time when he stepped into a Geneva saloon, which according to his chronological and historical biographer, was a week ago to-day. His history is very interesting, extensive and elaborate. History states that he was evidently "piloted" up the uncertain pathway of life, but a very simple way to express it is that he became and last Saturday night, after indulging in a spree of a week's duration, he was made the butt of the taunts and practical jokes of a party of young boys of whom Bryant was said to be the leader when, becoming enraged, he drew his knife and stabbed young Bryant in the left side between the fourth and fifth ribs. Young Bryant was immediately taken care of and the assassin was arrested by Constable Riggs, of Geneva.

The weapon was an ordinary pocket knife with a blade about three inches long but was driven with such force as to penetrate the lung of the young man and little or no hopes are entertained of his recovery. Bryant is a young man only about nineteen years of age and was well respected by his friends.

THE PRISONER, who was brought to this city and placed in the county jail, is not of a vicious disposition, but like hundreds before him, could not control his appetite for strong drink, and should his victim die will undoubtedly pay the penalty of his weakness. He is under bonds of $1,500.

PIOUS PLEASURES.

Sunday School Concert at the Berry Street Church.

Interesting and Creditable Exercises Last Evening.

The long-heralded Sunday school concert of the Berry Street M. E. Church was held last evening, and passed off very pleasantly and enjoyably.

The exercises were opened by a song, after which prayer was offered by Rev. Retts, followed by an address of welcome by the superintendent. Another song was rendered by the school, at the conclusion of which "Papa's Letter" was nicely spoken by Gracie Jackson, followed by Miss Hattie Hasler with "Old Rye Makes a Speech."

Misses Millie Hamill, Carrie Hill, Kitty Frenfield, Jessie Clark and Kitty Lehr then sang a beautiful chant entitled, "Cradle Song."

A discussion on "Who Ought to attend Sunday School?" followed, and was ably handled. A song by the infant class was followed by a reading by Miss Emma Knowles, when the Misses Hill, Clark, Frenfield and Lehr favored the audience with another song.

The following resolutions were then reported by a committee:

Whereas, Since the Shepherd has taken to his upper ivory sister Hattie French, and made vacant her place as teacher in our school.

Resolved, That we hold in dear remembrance her many virtues, her prompt attendance, her untiring zeal, her willing, earnest labor, for the prosperity of the school. While we mourn the loss of an efficient teacher and active assistant in our christian work, a dear friend and sister in our social relations, we resolve in the assurance that our loss is her gain; that we sorrow not as they who have no hope. To her bereaved friends we offer our warmest sympathies.

Resolved, That a proper notice of the death of our sister and fellow teacher and our action be spread upon the records of our school.

A recitation "Our Father," by Miss Emma Kline, and a poem, "The Best Use of a Penny," by Lillie Diehl, followed by an infant class exercise and the song "Good Night" closed the entertainment.

HADLEY.

A Budget of Gossip From a Lively Little Village.

[Correspondence of the SENTINEL.] Hadley, Ind., Nov. 20.—Our little town seems to be overlooked by all newspaper men; but I suppose we are so good, we need no stirring up by the press, as do some of our sister towns.

Our school is progressing finely under the supervision of Prof. S. Heintzelman of Peru. The professor is giving the best of satisfaction to all concerned, with the exception of the young ladies who object to his being a married man.

We have two other very fine young men (school teachers by profession) who leave us annually at the coming of winter. Welch goes south invariably.

Doughman takes a northern direction. Where he stops we are not informed.

We are to have a literary society this winter, so say the pedagogues.

Cordrey (of literary fame) is adorning our city with a very costly building which is nearly completed.

If our city was blessed with a few more enterprising men like Mr. Cordrey, there would be hopes for her future progress.

Miss Lupton has returned from the east, to nurse her mother who has been dangerously ill.

W. E. Gerding will attend the M. E. College, of Fort Wayne, this winter.

Barney Gocke is to have a new sleigh this winter (to take Aer out with), or rather a new dash board in the old sleigh.

GOOD BYE, GUST.

Touching Missive From a Heart Broken Lassie of Fifteen.

A Girl who Wanted to Die, But Changed Her Mind.

The following touching epistle, from one who intended to die for love, but since then has changed her mind, was handed to a SENTINEL reporter for publication. It is an affecting missive, and is calculated to swell a man's heart till his clothes will not fit him. Young maids of fifteen summers, beware!

Fort Wayne, Ind., }
Sept. 19, 1879. }

Dear Gust: You may think it strange for me to address you by that title, but I am going to tell you what has made me so unhappy. This is written when at school, but I have a presentiment that this day is my last. I give this letter to my dearest friend on earth to give to you. Gust you have broken my heart. It is you that have taught me that lesson of love. You who made me love you and then threw me over.

I thought from your actions until last night that you loved me. But mine eyes were opened last night to your unfaithfulness. Gust I do not wish you harm. I hope that if you wish I, W. that she may make you a good wife and that you may always be happy. I am sorry Gust that I ever crossed your path, for though I want to die, still if I had not this sorrow, life would be as sweet to me as any.

My life has not been very long; only fifteen summers have I lived. Oh! Gust, you cannot understand my love. It will do you no hurt to know it, as when you receive this I will be with my angel mother in heaven. I hope to meet you there. God bless you and your's is the prayer I offer up with my almost dying breath. Be a friend to her. I love her, and also the young lady which gives you this letter. Next to you and my parents I love her best of any one on earth. This young lady is I.—M.—

Again, I say, God bless you, and good-by till we meet in heaven.

From your broken hearted

HAT.

P. S.—No one knows the cause of my death except I—M—and yourself. Others will say "heart disease." That is part, but the other brought it on. I would like to see you before I die, but I don't suppose I will. I caught a glimpse of you this noon. With that I must be contented.

TEMPERANCE TOPICS

Discussed at Reformed Men's Hall and the Academy.

The temperance meeting at Reformed Men's Hall Saturday night, was well attended and great interest in the cause was manifested. Two young men signed the pledge. There will be another meeting at the same place to-night.

The Academy of Music was well filled last night and interesting addresses were made by the following gentlemen: H. C. Hartman, Rev. Mr. Seymour, Jacob Mershenbeler, Rev. Dr. Stone, Rev. Mr. Mahlin, Frank Chapman, Rev. Mr. McFarland, Calvin Anderson and Mr. Dunlap.

The collection amounted to $15.

The pastors of the Evangelical churches in the city are requested to meet at the office of H. C. Hartman this evening, together with the following named committee: J. W. Cronwell, T. J. Caldwell, John Kusell, Charles Schrader, Capt. C. Emery, Edward W. Boscher, Charles Burton, George W. Jones, J. H. Dillie, Thos. Cavanagh, B. W. Kimball, W. Eldridge and A. H. Polhamus, to take into consideration the subject of continuing the work.

Sunday Schoolers.

Early Sunday morning a car in the Wabash yard, loaded with lime, consigned to John Lillie, was discovered to be on fire. An alarm was promptly sounded and the fire was soon extinguished. Loss on the car about $180 and on the lime $125. It is supposed the fire was the work of an incendiary.

The Fort Wayne Laundry, owned by Mrs. Kate Gable, was slightly singed yesterday morning, but the excellent work of the fire department prevented the total destruction of the building. The loss on the building will not exceed $150 which is fully covered by insurance. Mrs. Richards in the employ of Mrs. Gable lost a trunk filled with wearing apparel. Her loss is about $20.

A Card of Thanks.

To the Editor of the SENTINEL: The managers of the Home for Friendless Women return thanks for the response to their call for help upon the 22d, especially to Mrs. J. L. Williams and Mrs. C. D. Bond, for their liberal donations, and they still hope for supplies of wood, coal, vegetables, etc., during the present week, from those who have not as yet responded to this call.

PRIDE AND PIZEN.

A South Town Girl Swallows a Deadly Drug.

The Sad Result of Seriously Misplaced Confidence.

Another case of misplaced confidence has been brought to light. The names of the parties will not be given out of respect for their connections, and neither is there any necessity for an expose of the parties at this time, but the facts will be made public.

One night last week a young man rushed into a prominent druggist's store and hurriedly inquired for a physician, saying that a young lady lying in the southern part of the city had taken poison. A physician was found and he accompanied the young man to the residence of the young lady, when it was discovered that she had swallowed the contents of an ounce bottle of laudanum. Powerful emetics were at once administered and supported by the doctor and her friend was walked about the yard for several hours. This prompt and efficient treatment produced the desired effect and by careful nursing and attention, the crisis was passed and the young lady's life was saved.

The young man says that he had been closeted with her in her room for some time that night, but that they had no light in the room, and were engaged in a conversation pertaining to themselves. They had some difference, he not agreeing to a proposition which she made, when, by the light of a gas lamp which shown faintly into the room, he observed her drink the and throw it out of the window. He became alarmed, and not getting any satisfactory explanation from her, went out into the yard and found the bottle. He at once went for a physician, with the above result.

Mrs. Joseph Cope.

This estimable lady, wife of Joseph Cope, clerk of the superior court and one of the proprietors of the Journal, died of consumption at her residence, 76 East Madison street, Saturday night. She has been ill for about eighteen months but has borne her suffering with the utmost fortitude.

Mrs. Cope has for several years been a member of the Methodist Episcopal church in this city, and when she became aware of the fact that her journey was about to end she received the information with all the fortitude of one who believes in the beauty of the Christian's future life.

Her death will cause profound regret among her many friends in the city.

The funeral took place this morning from her late residence, the Rev. Mr. Mahlin, of the Wayne Street Church, performing the funeral services. The pall bearers were Capt. E. B. Smith, John Wilkinson, William Keough, Capt. James P. Harper, Henry Franks and J. D. Stophel.

Another song was rendered by the school, at the conclusion of which "Papa's Letter" was nicely spoken by Gracie Jackson, followed by Miss Hattie Hassler with "Old Rye Makes a Speech."

Misses Millie Hammill, Carrie Hill, Kitty Fronefield, Jessie Clark and Kitty Lehr then sang a beautiful chant entitled, "Cradle Song."

A discussion on "Who Ought to attend Sunday School?" followed, and was ably handled. A song by the infant class was followed by a reading by Miss Emma Knowles, when the Misses Hill, Clark, Fronefield and another song.

The following resolutions were then reported by a committee:

Whereas, Since the Shepherd has taken to his upper fold our sister Hattie French, and made vacant her place as teacher in our school,

Resolved, That we hold in dear remembrance her many virtues, her prompt attendance, her untiring zeal, her willing earnest labor, for the prosperity of the school. While we mourn the loss of an efficient teacher and active assistant in our christian work, a dear friend and sister in our social relations, we rejoice in the assurance that our loss is her gain; that we sorrow not as they who have no hope. To her bereaved friends we offer our warmest sympathies.

Resolved, That a proper notice of the death of our sister and fellow teacher and our action be spread upon the records of our school.

A recitation "Our Father," by Miss Emma Kline, and a poem, "The Best Use of a Penny," by Lillie Diehl, followed by an infant class exercise and the song "Good Night" closed the entertainment.

HADLEY.

A Budget of Gossip From a Lively Little Village.

[Correspondence of the SENTINEL.] Hadley, Ind., Nov. 20.—Our little town seems to be overlooked by all newspaper men; but I suppose we are so good, we need no stirring up by the press, so some of our sister towns.

Our school is progressing finely under the supervision of Prof. S. Heintzelman of Peru. The professor is giving the best of satisfaction to all concerned, with the exception of the young ladies who object to his being a married man.

We have two other very fine young men (school teachers by profession) who leave us annually at the coming of winter. Welch goes south invariably.

Doughman takes a northern direction. Where he stops we are not informed.

We are to have a literary society this winter, so say the pedagogues.

Cordrey (of literary fame) is adorning our city with a very costly building which is nearly completed.

If our city was blessed with a few more enterprising men like Mr. Cordrey, there would be hopes for her future progress.

Miss Lupton has returned from the east, to nurse her mother who has been dangerously ill.

W. E. Gerding will attend the M. E. College, of Fort Wayne, this winter.

Barney Gocke is to have a new sleigh this winter (to take her out with), or rather a new dash board in the old sleigh.

GOOD BYE, GUST.

Touching Missive From a Heart Broken Lassie of Fifteen.

A Girl who Wanted to Die, But Changed Her Mind.

The following touching epistle, from one who intended to die for love, but since then has changed her mind, was handed to a SENTINEL reporter for publication. It is an affecting missive, and is calculated to swell a man's heart till his clothes will not fit him. Young maids of fifteen summers, beware!

Fort Wayne, Ind., Sept. 19, 1879.

Dear Gust:

You may think it strange for me to address you by that title, but I am going to tell you what has made me so unhappy. This is written when at school, but I have a presentiment that this day is my last. I give this letter to my dearest friend on earth to give to you. Gust you have broken my heart. It is you that have taught me that lesson of love. You who made me love you and then threw me over.

I thought from your actions until last night that you loved me. But mine eyes were opened last night to your selfishness. Gust I do not wish you harm. I hope that if you see L. W. that she may make you a good wife and that you may always be happy. I am sorry Gust that I ever crossed your path, for though I want to die, still if I had not this sorrow, life would be as sweet to me as any.

My life has not been very long; only fifteen summers have I lived. Oh Gust, you cannot understand my love. It will do you no hurt to know it, as when you receive this I will be with my angel mother in heaven. I hope to meet you there. God bless you and your's is the prayer I offer up with my almost dying breath. Be a friend to L. W.—U—for I love her, and also the young lady which gives you this letter. Next to go and my parents I love her best of anyone on earth. This young lady is L. M.—M—. Again, I say, God bless you, and good-by till we meet in heaven.

From your broken hearted

HAT. P. S.—No one knows the cause of my death except L. M.—M—and yourself. Others will say "heart disease." That is part, but the other brought it on.

I would like to see you before I die, but I don't suppose I will. I caught a glimpse of you this noon. With that I must be contented.

TEMPERANCE TOPICS

Discussed at Reformed Men's Hall and the Academy.

The temperance meeting at Reformed Men's Hall Saturday night, was well attended and great interest in the cause was manifested. Two young men signed the pledge. There will be another meeting at the same place to-night.

The Academy of Music was well filled last night and interesting addresses were made by the following gentlemen: H. C. Hartman, Rev. Mr. Seymour, Jacob Mersenhelter, Rev. Dr. Stone, Rev. Mr. Mahin, Frank Chapman, Rev. Mr. McFarland, Calvin Anderson and Mr. Dunlap.

The collection amounted to $15.

The pastors of the Evangelical churches in the city are requested to meet at the office of H. C. Hartman this evening, together with the following named committee: J. W. Cromwell, T. J. Caldwell, John Knell, Charles Schradler, Capt. C. Emery, Edward W. Bosler, Charles Barton, George W. Jones, J. H. Dillie, Thos. Cavanagh, B. W. Kimball, W. Eldridge and A. H. Polhamus, to take into consideration the subject of continuing the work.

Sunday Schoolers.

Early Sunday morning a car in the Wabash yard, loaded with lime, consigned to John Lillie, was discovered to be on fire. An alarm was promptly sounded and the fire was soon extinguished. Loss on the car about $180 and on the lime $125. It is supposed the fire was the work of an incendiary.

The Fort Wayne Laundry, owned by Mrs. Kate Gable, was slightly singed yesterday morning, but the excellent work of the fire department prevented the total destruction of the building. The loss on the building will not exceed $150 which is fully covered by insurance. Mrs. Richards in the employ of Mrs. Gable lost a trunk filled with wearing apparel. Her loss is about $20.

A Card of Thanks.

The managers of the Home for Friendless Women return thanks for the response to their call for help upon the 22d, especially to Mrs. J. L. Williams and Mrs. C. D. Bond, for their liberal donations, and they still hope for supplies of wood, coal, vegetables, etc., during the present week, from those who have not as yet responded to this call.

The Sad Result of Seriously Misplaced Confidence.

Another case of misplaced confidence has been brought to light. The names of the parties will not be given out of respect for their connections, and neither is there any necessity for an expose of the parties at this time, but the facts will be made public.

One night last week a young man rushed into a prominent druggist's store and hurriedly inquired for a physician, saying that a young lady living in the southern part of the city had taken poison. A physician was found and he accompanied the young man to the residence of the young lady, when it was discovered that she had swallowed the contents of an ounce bottle of laudanum. Powerful emetics were at once administered and

THE INTENDED VICTIM, supported by the doctor and her friend was walked about the yard for several hours. This prompt and efficient treatment produced the desired effect and by careful nursing and attention, the crisis was passed and the young lady's life was saved.

The young man says that he had been closeted with her in her room for some time that night, but that they had no light in the room, and were engaged in a conversation pertaining to themselves. They had some difference, he not agreeing to a proposition which she made, when, by the light of a gas lamp which shown faintly into the room, he observed her

CONTENTS OF A BOTTLE, and throw it out of the window. He became alarmed, and not getting any satisfactory explanation from her, went out into the yard and found the bottle. He at once went for a physician, with the above result.

Mrs. Joseph Cope.

This estimable lady, wife of Joseph Cope, clerk of the superior court and one of the proprietors of the Journal, died of consumption at her residence, 75 East Madison street, Saturday night. She has been ill for about eighteen months but has borne her suffering with the utmost fortitude. Mrs. Cope has for several years been a member of the Methodist Episcopal church in this city, and when she became aware of the fact that her journey was about to end she received the information with all the fortitude of one who believes in the beauty of the Christian's future life.

Her death will cause profound regret among her many friends in the city.

The funeral took place this morning from her late residence, the Rev. Mr. Mahin, of the Wayne Street Church, performing the funeral services. The pall bearers were Capt. E. B. Smith, John Wilkinson, William Keough, Capt. James P. Harper, Henry Franks and J. D. Stopher.
